

About UsHow we HelpGet InvolvedShopProductsLegalitiesInvestorsPartnersPhysicians

New York, February 3, 2004

Amigula Inc, OTC: AMJL. - has completed the purchase of 51% of Medical Cannabis Inc. and announces their plans to file as a reporting issuer once again. The company plans to list on a n exchange beginning with an application for a listing on the American Stock Exchange (AMEX) as well as several E exchanges.

"I believe the public will support the company in the stock market. It would be a favorable way to participate in an considered imaginative endeavor. What is unique about this business proposal is that as a public company everyc legal way to potentially make money in a budding medical marijuana industry, comments, Warren B. Eugene, Pres Amigula Inc.

The company views the current prohibition of marijuana as similar to that of alcohol, beer and tobacco. "We will lol government for bonded taxed marijuana warehouses." says Eugene.

Forbes Magazine recently reported in November 2003 that the controversial plant holds an important place in worl culture, not to mention business. Canada's marijuana crop is estimated at $4 billion to $7 billion. If it were controll company, it would be larger than Canada's oil and gas business and agricultural industries.

On October 7, 2003 the Ontario Superior Court ruled that business and individuals be allowed to grow and supply marijuana, effectively relieving the Canadian government of its often criticized and fairly unsuccessful attempts.

Health Canada "permitted persons" (exemptees) can now pay us to grow marijuana for them. The ruling makes it people to get marijuana by allowing them easier access - more choice and a fair price.

Health Canada estimates that 400,000 Canadians may require medicinal cannabis." We plan to capture app. 10% in Canada – that's 40,000 patients @ an average of $1000 dollars per patient, per year. The cost to produce marij $150 dollars per pound. The profit margins are very large without taking advantage of ill people. It's a well-considered responsible business model.

In October 2003, the United States Supreme Court lifted the federal ban of medical marijuana and prosecution of may open the doors to a larger international market for our company," says Eugene.

"We have improved the delivery, packaging and the costs," states Eugene.

Our company has a mandate to develop and improve the medical marijuana business worldwide.

"We are on the acquisition and consolidation trail" This is a fast growing new industry and we have enjoyed the first adopter advantage.

The Canadian government, as of February 2004, may seek to approve Bill C-38 or a derivative/variation of that Bill. Canadians have the right to possess up to 15 grams of non-medical marijuana.

"We anticipate a favorable outcome. It would make good economic and political sense to regulate and tax marijuana, tobacco and alcohol. There is a huge untapped tax base available to pay down deficits, to properly fund social initiatives such as the ailing school system, the distraught medical system, social insurance, homelessness, the arts, sports, and the overall good of Canadians. $900 million per year in tax revenue may be realized" says Hilton P. Mijovick, company spokesperson.

"Capitalism and Wall Street are now endorsing a fully legal legitimate Canadian Marijuana company" Says Mijovick

"The sky is the limit for our company" The real business - is promoting medical cannabis to doctors and hospitals and patients. Our company is about to launch a large scale public awareness ad campaign across Canada. Our company is currently accepting applications from individuals with their applications for this therapy with Health Canada. The public may sign an advance purchase form on our web site at www.amigula.com and apply to Health Canada. If Health Canada gives people permission to have medical marijuana - then we will have it available for them. says Warren Eugene.

The highest court in SAN FRANCISCO ruled in December 2003 - that personal cultivation and use of medical marijuana in the state that permits such activities can be outside the control of federal authorities.

The decision by the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals directly affects our company's opportunity to expand. We are currently in the process of acquisitions.

Please contact Amigula Inc.
www.amigula.com

Warren B. Eugene
416 - 838 - 3600

DISCLAIMER

Except for the historical information contained herein, this press release contains forward-looking statements that are subject to risks and uncertainties. Actual results may differ materially from the results predicted and reported results should not be taken as an indication of future performance. In addition to the factors discussed in the filings with the Securities and Exchange Commission, among the other factors that could cause actual results to differ materially are the following: adverse changes in the business conditions and the general economy; competitive factors, such as rival companies' pricing and market share; availability of third-party material products at reasonable prices; the financial condition of the customer; risks of obsolescence due to shifts in market demand; and litigation involving product liabilities and consumer issues. Amigula, Inc. cautions investors not to place undue reliance upon any such forward looking statements, which speak only as of the date made. Amigula, Inc. expressly disclaims any obligations or undertaking to release publicly any updates or revisions to any such statements or any change in the company's expectations or any change in events, conditions or circumstances on which any such statements are based.

A PUBLIC TRADED COMPANY - OTC: AMJL

The company was trading as APLD. The company completed a restructuring and name change to Amigula.

The company completed a reverse takeover and a reverse split.